Grower Tips:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Blooms very early in the season – dormant or spring pruning will remove flower buds and the potential for fruit.</li> <li>• Trim 2-4 times the first season to develop an appealing, well-rounded form. Stop pruning in late July to allow the flower buds to form for sale the following season.</li> <li>• Plants will most likely bloom before shipping season begins, and flowers are relatively insignificant anyway. To ship product bearing fruit, grow near Sugar Mountain® Eisbär; both plants will then develop berries.</li> <li>• This plant is susceptible to sunscald and should be grown with some shade. Powdery mildew may also occur; use all standard practices to minimize.</li> </ul>
